Steve Botsford

Biography: Steve Botsford is a National Religion Consultant for William H. Sadlier, Inc. He holds a master of religious education degree from Loyola University, New Orleans; a master of business administration through the University of Phoenix; a church management certificate from Villanova University and is a master catechist in the Archdiocese of Atlanta. After converting to the Catholic faith in 1992, he became a catechist to help others learn about God's love—the same love he experienced during his conversion. He served over 10 years in parish ministries as a youth minister and DRE. As a DRE, Steve led a team to rebrand and reinvent PSR (Parish School of Religion) into LAUNCH Children's Ministry, including a thematic immersive design, mobile classrooms, and enhanced curriculum methodology. As a blogger, Steve explores catechesis and technology at www.TransformingCatechesis.com, and contributes to We Believe and Share, published by Sadlier. He wrote Cultivating Faith, published in 2016, and his board game, Feast Day: The Liturgical Year Board Game (www.FeastDayGame.com), teaches the church year in a fun and entertaining way. In addition, Steve was part of the Digital Disciples Network committee which developed the Digital Disciple Technology Competencies for Ministry.
